CRITICAL CONVERSATIONS

Election Series

Click on the session title to RSVP. Contact diversity@fullerton.edu if you have any questions

US Presidential Election Explained
Friday, Nov. 6th
3:30-5 PM

In collaboration with Academic Affairs and the CSUF Civic Engagement Committee
Join this panel of faculty experts for a nonpartisan explanation of our country’s Presidential Election Process. This session will explain history, context, and the process that the United States utilizes to elect the next President.

Civic Engagement and Civil Dialogue
Monday, Nov. 9th
10 AM-12 PM

Join this open discussion group in processing the effects of election cycle stress, asking helpful questions about the meaning of the outcome, and engaging with others regarding the impact of the election on our country. This session is designed as a brave space for the entire campus community.

Self-Care and Politics
Friday, Nov. 13th
11 AM-12:30 PM

In collaboration with Dr. Portia Jackson Preston, Faculty, Department of Public Health
Civic engagement and the elections results have been on the forefront of many individuals’ minds this month. This session is intentionally focused on helping participants find ways to take care of their own mental, emotional, and physical health post-election results.

Having Difficult Conversations with Family and Friends
Wednesday, Nov. 18th
11:30 AM-1 PM

In collaboration with Dr. Bey-Ling Sha, Dean, College of Communication
With Thanksgiving Break and the holiday season around the corner, coming together with close friends and family might be in your future. Come to this session if you’re interested in learning communication skills that can help you navigate difficult conversations about politics and election results that may come up over the break.

Visit the Titans Turn Out website for more election events and resources

Follow @CSUFDiversity on social media for more self-care tips with Dr. Portia Jackson Preston

#TitansTurnOut

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY FULLERTON
DIVERSITY, INCLUSION AND EQUITY PROGRAMS