Chancellor's Doctoral Incentive Program

Amount: Loans of up to $10,000 per year, up to a total of $30,000, within a five-year period while enrolled full time in a doctoral program at an approved, accredited institution.

Established by: Established in 1987, The California State University (CSU) Chancellor's Doctoral Incentive Program (CDIP) provides and opportunities for exceptional students interested in teaching the CSU to receive comprehensive support during their doctoral studies. The CSU has an ambition goal of increasing graduation rates for all students while eliminating opportunities and achievement gaps. The goal of the California State University Chancellor's Doctoral Incentive program (CDIP) is to increase the number of faculty with the qualifications, motivation, and skills needed to teach the diverse students of the CSU.

CDIP has supported over 1,300 students in earning a doctoral degree. Scholars are supported during their doctoral studies with financial support including forgivable loans, mentorship by CSU faculty and professional development and grant resources. It is the largest program of its kind in the United States. Funds for the CDIP are contingent on the California State University Board of Trustees' approval each year of the Lottery Revenue Budget, which funds the program. Since 1987, the program has loaned $51 million to 2,175 doctoral students. More than half (60%) of CDIP scholars who completed their doctorates have obtained faculty positions at a CSU campus.

Open to: CDIP is intended to support doctoral students who will pursue CSU instructional faculty positions. As such, students who meet one of the following criteria are eligible to apply to the CDIP:

- New or continuing full-time doctoral students currently enrolled in accredited programs in the U.S.;
- Undergraduate and master's-level graduate students in the application process to accredited doctoral programs in the U.S.;
- Lecturers who are enrolled full-time in a doctoral program are eligible and encouraged to apply. However, probationary and tenured faculty members in the CSU are not eligible regardless of their status in a doctoral program.

Special considerations for students in professional and online doctoral degree programs:

Most professional doctoral degree programs (such as Ed.D., DNP, DPT, and PsyD) as well as online degree programs are designed for developing advanced administrative and/or applied skills in a profession that are required for entrance into a non-academic career.

Applicants in a professional doctoral and/or online program may apply to the CDIP only if they plan to pursue a tenure-track instructional faculty position AND their doctoral program's mission explicitly includes preparation and training of future university faculty members (evidence of latter must be provided by applicant).

Given that the CSU Ed.D. programs were established for the purpose of preparing administrative leaders for the California public education system (California Education Code 66040.3), applicants pursuing professional doctorates from CSU Ed.D. programs must make a strong case for how their doctoral programs prepare them to be qualified and competitive for CSU faculty positions.

Additional Eligibility Criteria

Enrollment or employment in the California State University is not required for participation in the program. However, approximately one-fourth of the awards are expected to be made to individuals who have served in CSU positions represented by the California Faculty Association in the last two years.

U.S. citizenship is not required, but applicants must be eligible to work in the U.S. for CSU faculty positions.

Criteria: Two criteria are used to make selections to the Chancellor's Doctoral Incentive Program:

1. Applicant's potential as a doctoral student, potential to become a tenure-track faculty member, and interest in teaching a diverse student population.
2. Academic discipline: Primary consideration will be given to candidates whose proposed area of study falls where CSU campuses anticipate the greatest difficulty in filling potential future instructional faculty positions. Information from a variety of sources may be considered when evaluating this criterion. One relevant source is the CSU Report on Faculty Recruitment Survey, which presents recent information on the number of tenure-track searches and appointments in various disciplines throughout the CSU system.

Application Procedure: 1) Complete the application form at <https://calstate.infoready4.com/#competitionDetail/1777455>; 2) A current curriculum vitae, limited to four pages; 3) Statement of qualifications and motivation, limited to three pages, and addresses how the following have contributed to your commitment to become a CSU faculty member:

- Academic preparation
- Professional experiences
- Motivation and interest
- Connection to the CSU
- Ability to educate a diverse student body

4) CSU Collaborative Plan of Support; 5) Three professional letters of recommendation, one of which is from your CSU faculty mentor. If currently enrolled in a doctoral program, one of the other letters must be from a faculty member at that institution; 6) A recent CSU faculty position announcement in your general field that has recently been posted at a CSU campus.

The California Pre-Doctoral Program

Amount: $3,000 (plus optional funding for summer research experience opportunities)

Established by: This program is designed to increase the diversity of the pool of potential faculty by supporting the doctoral aspirations of CSU students who have experienced economic and educational disadvantages. Winners will be designated as Sally Casanova Scholars, as a tribute to Dr. Sally Casanova, for whom the award is named.

With the aid of a CSUF Faculty/Staff Sponsor, these Scholars are exposed to unique opportunities to help prepare them to succeed in doctoral programs. The program places a special emphasis on increasing the number of CSU students who enter doctoral programs at one of the University of California (UC) or California State institutions. The program provides travel funds to visit doctorate-granting institutions, options for summer research internships/opportunities, and funds for other doctoral program related activities.

Open to: This scholarship is open to juniors, seniors and graduate students who are enrolled at a CSU campus and who will be enrolled for at least one semester of the academic year 2019-2020.

Criteria: Academic excellence ♦ Economic or educational disadvantages ♦ Must be enrolled at a CSU campus and who will be enrolled for at least one semester of the academic year 2019-2020 ♦ Commitment to a career in teaching and research at the college or university level. Professional degrees (law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, or an MBA) are not eligible ♦ U.S. citizen or permanent resident or AB540/DACA status at the time the application is submitted ♦ Must have a CSUF faculty/staff sponsor who will be available for the duration of the plan

Applications are reviewed and selected by the Chancellor's Office. Sally Casanova Scholars are selected on three major criteria: 1) potential for success in completing a doctoral program, 2) probable effectiveness of the student/faculty plan, and 3) level of economic and education disadvantage.

Application Procedure: The 2019-20 Pre-Doctoral application will be available in mid-December 2018. You can download the application from <http://www.fullerton.edu/graduate/funding/predocutorial.php> or you can obtain a copy from the Office of Graduate Studies (MH-112) in December 2017.

Final approval and submission of the application must be sent electronically by the CSUF Pre-Doctoral Coordinator on or before Friday, February 1, 2019.
