Cal State Fullerton's College of the Arts is distinguished by its fully accredited Departments of Art, Theatre & Dance, and School of Music. A broad range of comprehensive major and study options are available to 2,600+ diverse and talented arts students. College of the Arts alumni make a national impact as artists, technicians, educators and entrepreneurs.

Over 400 annual concerts, theatre, opera and dance performances, as well as other artistic projects, highlight and nurture the creative talents of the College's performing arts student performers, designers and technicians. Performances and artistic projects are presented in the state-of-the-art Joseph A.W. Clayes III Performing Arts Center, which includes 4 theatres, a recital hall, a concert hall and numerous rehearsal spaces.

Join Us!

Your membership contribution, combined with fundraising and endowment earnings, enable MAMM Alliance to grant much-needed support for performing arts programs which nurture our students' skills as performers and technicians.

Each year, MAMM Alliance also reinvests 25% of its earnings from membership and fundraising events in the group's endowment, with the intent of providing a perpetual source of funding for students and programs in the performing arts for many years to come.

Marcy Arroues Mulville: A Tradition of Giving

Chartered in 2006, the MAMM Alliance was established to carry on the remarkable legacy of Marcy Arroues Mulville, who is remembered for her generous and active arts patronage in Orange County as well as her long-standing support of Cal State Fullerton and the College of the Arts.

Students share their experience about the impact of MAMM Alliance support

"The 2019 CBDNA conference was a wonderful, eye-opening experience! The opportunity to introduce the Cal State Fullerton Wind Symphony to the national stage with a fantastic world premier by David Biedenbender was the highlight of my undergraduate career. This conference has deeply motivated me to continue my pursuits in music performance and composition, and inspires me to reach higher in my education."

"The New York Showcase not only opened doors for us in the professional world, but allowed us to see where our lives will take us. We saw so many wonderful shows, took classes and more. It's definitely the highlight of my time at CSUF."
